

U3A Walking group May 2025

Two years ago, in May 2023, we embarked on the 'northern' route of the 10-mile Penn Jubilee Wood walk setting off from the Red Lion in Penn so it was time to navigate the 'southern' route. The weather, having been glorious for the preceding weeks (and indeed for our walk two years ago), decided it was going to have a bit of fun so we did get thoroughly drenched. Our route took us through Common Wood and then south to Forty Green – we looked longingly at the three inviting pubs that we passed en route but valiantly marched on – before returning through farmlands back to the pub where a delicious meal awaited us. We all agreed it was possibly the wettest walk we'd ever been on but definitely worth another visit so that we could admire the lovely views, which had been slightly obscured by low-lying clouds today!
