

October 2022

A slight increase in numbers this month with 11 members of the group eagerly awaiting what Paul and Nick were going to present. They were not disappointed.

Paul began the evening with three whites, all completely different, from three different countries. The Macon Lugny from France was very dry, The Albarino from Spain was quite light and the clear favourite was the Chenin Blanc from South Africa. Prices were £9.99, £11.99 and £10.49

The reds were also from three different countries - the first red (Primitivo, from Italy) was made using the appassimento method, the second Orovela Saperavistyle (from Georgia) and the last 667 Noble Vines Pinot Noir (from California). All quite full bodied being 13.5%, 13.5% and 14.5%. The Pinot was the most popular and the prices varied from £7.99, £11.99 and £11.99.

All the wines were bought from Waitrose.
